Another listicle of sorts could be all of his examples of bigotry re voter ID.

I would suggest one of you or jointly draft up a blog pointing out all of Hasen's mistakes and errors

I think it is important to directly confront Hasen. He has VERY thin skin and shirks from direct public confrontation. When confronted in public, he reverts to pretending he is oh-so-open-minded and calls on the useful idiots on our side (Bopp among them) to write nice things about him to rebuff me or Hans. (I cannot remember if Bopp did so, but I know some did and I know some ALMOST did but for Hans and me warning them.) The key narrative is that Hasen is a democrat operative disguised as an academic, and is regularly advancing the agenda of the most extreme parts of the Democrat party.

The more he becomes unhinged in the months ahead, the better. Push his buttons. Sick of him being the elder statesman in the eyes of the MSM.

Rick Hasen is a raw enemy activist. He isn't interested in accuracy or truth or even making concessions. He is the central organizing location of our foes. He is going to get very ugly toward me and Hans when/if we are nominated by the President to the Voter Fraud commission.

I read with interest this article, which Rick Hasen linked in his blog with his editorialized title found in my subject line, above.

These lines were my favorite: "In all, the 28 noncitizens were recorded as having cast a total of 120 ballots. The CNS research did not corroborate the contention in the "Alien Invasion" report that "nearly 200 verified ballots" were cast by noncitizens before they were removed from the voter rolls. However, it seemed certain that some noncitizens have voted."

A marginal difference....and they didn't even review the voter history themselves. They outsourced it to a Democratic group.
